Print Motivation is having an interest in and an enjoyment of books. Convey your love of books and reading in the way you share books with your child. Snuggle up and cuddle with them when you are reading sweet stories like our Guess How Much I Love You.

Make sure you and your child are in good moods when you read so the experience is enjoyable. Stop reading when your child becomes tired or loses interest. It is more important for the interaction around a book to be positive than for it to be long.

You may hear people say that you should read to your child 15 minutes a day. No one expects young children to sit still for that long. It is okay to read to your child for 2 or 3 minutes (long enough to finish a short book) a couple of times a day. Keep books in every room, in your diaper bag and in the car. Take advantage of times when your child is quiet and alert.

Extend the Book
Talk to your child about people they love. Do they love someone as much as Little Nutbrown Hare loves his mom? Ask them how big they love this person (To the moon and back? As high as they can jump?). Have your child imitate Little Nutbrown Hare by stretching their arms, jumping, and pointing with him.

Talk about the members of your family. Talk about how you are related (Aunt Mary is Daddy’s Sister, just like Sue is your sister). Make a family tree at home. Ask your child to pretend he is Little Nutbrown Hare and ask him how much he loves the members of your family. Share these stories with your family members or write them down to retell your child when he is older.

Talk to your child about ways they know that they are loved and ask him how he shows his love to others. Avoid talking about things that are bought and focus on activities you do. (If your child says “I know you love me because you bought me a toy for my birthday,” say “I show you I love you by taking you to the park and teaching you how to walk across the road safely.”) Tell your child “I know you love me when you listen to me,” or “when you give me a kiss and a hug goodnight,” etc.
Here are some song and rhymes about Rabbits

Little Bunny Foo Foo
Little Bunny Foo Foo,
Hopping through the forest
Scooping up the field mice
And boppin' 'em on the head

Down came the good fairy and she said
"Little Bunny Foo Foo, I don't want to see you
Scooping up the field mice
And boppin' 'em on the head.
I'll give you three chances, And if you don't behave
I'll turn you into a goon!"

But, the next day:
Little Bunny Foo Foo,
Hopping through the forest
Scooping up the field mice
And boppin' 'em on the head

Down came the good fairy and she said
"Little Bunny Foo Foo, I don't want to see you
Scooping up the field mice
And boppin' 'em on the head.
I'll give you two more chances, And if you don't behave
I'll turn you into a goon!"

But, the next day:
Repeat again with one more chance

But, the next day:
Little Bunny Foo Foo,
Hopping through the forest
Scooping up the field mice
And boppin' 'em on the head

Down came the good fairy and she said
"Little Bunny Foo Foo, I don't want to see you
Scooping up the field mice
And boppin' 'em on the head.

But, I gave you three chances
And you didn't behave
Now you're a goon! POOF!!"

The moral of the story is:
HARE TODAY, GOON TOMORROW

The Love Bug

It begins with a grin
(smile broadly)

It turns to a giggle
(put both hands on mouth and giggle)

You start to laugh
(throw head back and laugh out loud)

Your legs start to wiggle
(put feet in the air and shake)

You look all around for someone to hug
(move eyes back and forth)

You've caught the love bug
(hug another child or yourself)

ACHOO!

Mail Myself To You

I'm gonna wrap myself in paper.
I'm gonna dab myself with glue.
Stick some stamps on top of my head.
I'm gonna mail myself to you.

I'm going to wrap myself in paper
I'm going to stick myself with glue
I'm going to tie a BIG bow on me
I'm going to mail myself to you.

I'm gonna tie me up in red string,
I'm gonna use blue ribbon too.
I'm gonna climb up into your mailbox.
I'm gonna mail myself to you.

Love Is A Circle

Love is a circle,
Round and round (make a circling motion with arm)
Love goes up, (raise arms up)
And Love comes down, (lower arms)
Love is on the inside, (pull hands inward towards chest)
Trying to get out, (pull hands away from chest)
Love is whirling and twirling about!
(move hands in a spinning motion)
Sam McBratney is the author of Guess How Much I Love You. He told us: "The best thing about books like Guess, books which are very popular, is this: I know that somewhere in the world a mum or dad will reach for a copy of something I've written, and read it to the most precious thing they have in the world. That thought really pleases me." Sam likes hares so much that he has two hare statues carved out of wood in his garden and a room in his house dedicated to Big and Little Nutbrown Hare! A contemporary classic for young children, Guess How Much I Love You was originally published in 1994, and is a book I have read many times over the years, although I am only now (in 2016) getting around to recording my response to it. This edition is a 20th Anniversary one, and contains a brief note from both author and illustrator. I've always loved this gentle tale, with its humorous and indulgent papa hare, and its cute-as-a-button hare son. McBratney perfectly captures their back and forth, just as Anita Jeram captures their loving bond in her charming ink and watercolor illustration. I love you right up to the moon - and back. First published nearly 15 years ago, the story of Little and Big Nutbrown Hare’s efforts to express... He wanted to be sure that Big Nutbrown Hare was listening. "Guess how much I love you", he said. "Oh, I don't think I could guess that," said Big Nutbrown Hare. "This much," said Little Nutbrown Hare, stretching out his arms as wide as they could go. Big Nutbrown Hare had even longer arms. "But I love you this much," he said. Hmm, that is a lot, thought Little Nutbrown Hare. "I love you as high as I can reach," said Little Nutbrown Hare. "I love you as high as I can reach," said Big Nutbrown Hare. That is quite high, thought Litt
